— PRESS RELEASE —

Kipling & Clark, the Leading Luxury Travel Company to Asia,

SPOTLIGHTS LUANG PRABANG, LAOS AS ITS FEATURED DESTINATION FOR JANUARY 2008

The Founder of Kipling & Clark will Chronicle His Family's Personal Holiday Journey to Laos and Thailand on Travel Blog: www.KiplingandClark.Blogspot.com

CHICAGO, IL—December 17, 2007—Kipling & Clark, the expert in private, personalized luxury travel to Greater China, Japan and all of Southeast Asia, has chosen Luang Prabang as its featured destination for January 2008. The New York Times recently named Laos as its number one place to visit in 2008.

"Kipling & Clark features two high-end luxury properties in Luang Prabang: the Résidence Phou Vao and the French colonial boutique property Maison Souvannaphoum, both are stunningly beautiful, charming and luxurious, truly world-class," said Randy Lynch, founder and president of Kipling & Clark. "The ancient royal city of Luang Prabang is a hidden treasure in Southeast Asia. It's a slow, sleepy town, nestled on the Mekong River and rich in Buddhist culture, traditional Laotian dwellings and French colonial architecture – it's a place where time seems to stand still."

Randy Lynch will be chronicling his family's holiday expedition to Laos and Thailand on the Kipling & Clark Blog. www.KiplingandClark.Blogspot.com beginning December 25th.

"I will be highlighting and sharing all the amazing wonders of Laos and Thailand: we'll cruise down the Mekong River from Chiang Rai to Luang Prabang, visit Tam Ting 'Cave of a Thousand Buddha's', participate in a traditional Baci ceremony, visit ancient temples, monasteries and ethnic markets, and enjoy the finest luxury accommodations. Our daughter, Zennia, will also make return visits to several local schools and orphanages," said Mr. Lynch. "At Kipling & Clark, we are able to create once-in-a-lifetime custom journeys to Southeast Asia, Greater China, Japan and India-Bhutan because we personally experience all the places we recommend. Our high-touch service and impeccable destination planning comes from our own first-hand experiences, enabling us to deliver unique luxury travel experiences for discerning travelers."
